TROJANS ARE FAVORED TO WIN CONTEST

Record Crowd Expected to Attend Fifteenth Annual Football Classic
MANY END CAREERS

Stars of Two of Greatest Teams of All Times to Play Last Game Today

PASADENA, Jan. 1.—(UP)—
Southern California, coast conference champions, and Tulane, southern conference champions, meet here today to decide which will be the national football title-holder.

Their meeting, the fifteenth intercollegiate Tournament of Roses
New Year's day contest, will be watched by a record crowd in Rose Bowl.

Southern California was a heavy pregame favorite despite Tulane's impressive record of going through a hard 11 game schedule without a defeat.

Because both teams have extraordinarily powerful offenses, fans expected scoring to be plentiful providing good weather prevails.

The weather angle still was uncertain early today, with the weather bureau predicting unsettled conditions.

Coaches of both teams pronounced their men in excellent condition with not an ailing man in either camp.

Howard Jones, of the Trojans, said he believed his men were in fine mental as well as physical condition and said he expected to win by a close score.

BAR REPORTER AT KENTUCKY MURDER TRIAL

Judge Will Decide Monday
Whether Correspondent
Can Report Case

MT. STERLING, Ky., Jan. 1.—
(UP)—Exclusion of a Knoxville newspaperman from the Montgomery county circuit court room during the William Hightower murder conspiracy trial will be decided upon Monday night.

Hightower, president of the Ev-arts, Ky., local United Mine Workers of America, is charged with conspiracy to murder Jim Daniels, one of the three Harlan county deputy sheriffs slain in a gun battle near Evans last May 5.

The killing climaxed a series of labor disturbances in the southeastern Kentucky coal fields.

Hearing on a motion by the prosecution in the Hightower case to bar John T. Moutoux, member of the Knoxville, Tenn., News Sentinel staff, originally was scheduled for today. It was postponed on request for further time to prepare the defense of W. H.
Townsend, Lexington, attorney for Moutoux.

Moutoux was not sooner released from a contempt of court citation by Judge Henry R. Prewitt yesterday when he was ordered to show cause why he should be permitted to remain in the courtroom by motion by W. C. Hamilton, commonwealth's attorney.

Hamilton presented an affidavit by J. B. Snyder of prosecuting counsel, charging that Moutoux had made statements "derogatory to the courts" and "very antagonistic to the prosecution."

Judge Prewitt, in the contempt of court proceedings, held that a special article Moutoux had written for the News Sentinel, following the recent trial of W. B.
Jones on charges similar to those against Hightower, which criticized the conduct of Hamilton, was not contempt.

He held an editorial published in the paper was in contempt, however, and ruled that no representative of the News Sentinel could "take notes" in his courtroom until the newspaper apologized.
In an editorial yesterday, the News Sentinel said it had no apology to make.

Judge Prewitt gave Moutoux permission to remain and report the trial as a special correspondent for the United Press, on condition he not write anything for the News Sentinel. It was when he returned to the courtroom in this capacity that the prosecution motion to exclude him was made.

Goes to Sleep On Ladder; Takes Tumble

COLORADO SPRINGS, Jan.
1.—(UP)—H. F. Burger, salesman in a local shoe store, started the new year the wrong way—with a cracked rib and a sprained ankle.
Burger sat atop an eight-foot ladder used to reach high shelves, and waited for the 5 o'clock closing whistle yesterday.

He went to sleep, fell from the ladder, and spoiled any plans he might have had for celebrating the coming of 1932.

THREE KILLED AS PASSENGER PLANE CRASHES

Foggy, Hazy Weather is Blamed for Accident in Ohio Last Night

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 1.—(UP)— Foggy, hazy weather was blamed today for the crash of an American Airways passenger plane that took the lives of three persons late last night on the muddy field of a farm near Brighton, O.

The dead are: A. E. Wenner,
Cincinnati, O.; O. G. Mayer, Louisville, Ky.; Louis E. Stone, Norwood, O.

Pilot L. L. Bowen, Louisville, Ky., and W. B. Welback, Cincinnati, O., are near death in a hospital here.

The plane left Cleveland at 4:23 p. m. yesterday bound for Louisville with four passengers.

Unable to penetrate the fog, it is believed that Pilot Bowen attempted a forced landing. The ship buried its nose in the mud after striking the water soaked hayfield of the farm of C. L.
Snodgrass, near Brighton.

It apparently then turned on its side, skidded and broke off one wing.

Defenders Retreating From City

Newspaper Correspondent With Jap Forces Among the Casualties

TOKIO, Jan. 1.—(UP)—Japanese troops under Gen. Jiro Tamon crossed the Taling river at 3
p. m. today and occupied Taling station, within striking distance of their goal at Chinchow.

Advices received here said Chinese defenders of Chinchow apparently were in retreat, clearing the last obstacle to Tamon's entrance into the city. Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed Manchurian war lord, had ordered a contingent of his troops to guard the river while the remainder withdraw inside the great wall.

The Asahi newspaper here were informed that their correspondent accompanying the Japanese brigade had been captured by Chinese bandits and killed. Reports said that a motorcycle driver accompanying the correspondent was shot to death when captured west of Yinkow and the reporter taken to the bandit camp and meted out a like fate.

Although expecting a heavy fight, Gen. Jiro Tamon, commanding the Japanese brigade, apparently found little opposition in his drive toward the lone Manchurian city still held by the Chinese.

Conflicting reports were received here as to the evacuation of Chin-chow by Chinese troops under Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, but it was believed that Tamon would enter the city without trouble.

It was understood that American, British and French military attaches stationed at Chinchow had left the city during the night for Peking.

ceipt of a decree on grounds of cruelty, and custody of their 14-year-old daughter.

Van Loan agreed to pay $50 a month for the child's support, and in addition was required to pay his wife $175 a month.

SNOW PLOW BREAKS
THROUGH BIG DRIFT

TAHOE, Calif., Jan. 1.—(UP)— A giant snowbank surrounding the colony at Lake Tahoe was broken today by a railway snowplow, bringing freedom to hundreds of marooned visitors and aid to a woman in a dangerous condition from lack of medical care.

A physician accompanied the emergency crew which was first to break through the nine foot drift.
He gave first aid to Mrs. John Malcolm, resident of the resort, who was seriously burned Wednesday night in a gasoline lamp explosion.

The first train also brought fresh food to the colony, whose residents had subsisted on canned fare for several days while they were hemmed in by the snow.

Repairmen who accompanied the train to rebuild broken communication lines found dozens of small buildings at the resort crushed under the weight of the drifts.

FINLAND VOTES TO HALT PROHIBITION

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 1.
—(UP)—Hilarious celebrations ushered in the new year in the Finnish capital as complete unofficial returns showed a vote of 76 per cent in favor of abolition of the 12-year-old prohibition law.

Offered three alternatives in a prohibition referendum, namely repeal of the dry law, continuation of the existing regime, or modification to allow manufacture and sale of light wines and beer, the country voted as follows:
For repeal (incomplete figures)
181,631; for continuance prohibition
5,688; and for modification, 2621.

Famous Screen Singer To Marry Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.— (UP)—Lawrence Tibbett, baritone star of opera and the talkies, and Mrs. Jennie Marston Adams Burgard, San Francisco heiress, were to be married here today.

The couple planned a private ceremony this afternoon at the home of Hunter S.
Marston, Mrs. Burgard's brother. Only relatives and close friends were to attend.

Tibbett was divorced at Reno by his first wife Dec.
15. Mrs. Burgard was married twice before, to Robert J. Adams of New York and John Clark Burgard, both of whom she divorced in Reno.

The first Mrs. Tibbett, nee Grace Mackay, was in New York today to allow Tibbett to see his two children, under the terms of the divorce.

WORK FOR JOBLESS

Advent of New Year Heralded by Joyous But Very Quiet Celebration

LITTLE 1932, a smiling, optimistic youngster, arrived "singing in the rain" at 12:01 this morning. His arrival was greeted with a tooting of horns, ringing of bells and a firing of blank cartridges that almost drowned out the stuffing of feet that marked the passing of the decrepit year 1931.

As the little New Year passed the shuffling old year he halted for a second, and with hands on hips, looked the old man over and remarked "Boy, what a mess you've left things in! But think nothing of it, I'll soon straighten things out." Happy New Year.

Santa Ana, celebrated the stranger's arrival in a joyous but more quiet manner than is customary in many localities.

Many of the churches marked the old year's passing with watch parties, which were well attended.
Watch parties were held in scores of Santa Ana homes, and theaters offered midnight frolics for many of the citizens.

Regardless of where they passed the hours in between dinner and midnight the Santa Ana citizenry was ready and at the stroke of 12 greeted the New Year with a clatter and din that left little doubt of his welcome.

In spite of the fact that 1931 has been marked by depression and a serious unemployment situation that has been felt in Santa Ana as well as in other sections of the nation, business leaders here feel that they have a good reason for being optimistic.

This optimism is predicated on the fact that while conditions here have been depressed Santa Ana has not felt the pinch of depression that has marked the past year in other communities. Business has been below normal but above the average for the state.

That the new year will bring an upturn in prosperity here is indicated by the fact that a definite program of building is being launched. This will be opened January 18 for construction of the Bowers Memorial Museum. This construction will call for an expenditure of approximately $50,000 and provide work for Santa Ana laborers and artisans. Work is already under way on construction of a garage building on North Main street by the George Dunton Ford agency. This building will add approximately $25,000 to the amount in circulation from building projects.

the Editor of The Register:)
See by papers they are evac-fight. That's a good joke on over twenty newspaper boys who have been waiting in Mukden for two months just for this last fight and they wanted me to stay over.

Goody. Well, this winds up the war; Japan has got all

INDICT RUM RUNNERS ON MURDER CHARGES

SAN JOSE, Jan. 1.—(UP)—Joe Terrell and Jack Le Vers, asserted coast rum runners, were indicted on charges of murder today as the aftermath of a gun battle in which Deputy Sheriff Herbert W. McAuley was killed.

The grand jury voted the indictments after hearing testimony of Fred Hopkins of Long Beach, who was in the automobile with the two men when they were stopped by McAuley and a fellow officer.

Shots were exchanged by the deputies and the occupants of the machine and McAuley was killed. Hopkins is held as an alleged participant.

TRAGEDY BROUGHT TO TWO FAMILIES

CHICAGO, Jan. 1.—(UP)—The New Year brought tragedy today to two families virtually wiped out when nine of a party of 10 were trapped and drowned in their automobile which plunged into the Calumet river.

The only occupant of the car
who survived was Jacob Schiller, 29, Coopersville, Mich. Those drowned were his wife, Seneca, 29;
his three children, Alvera, 5;
Louis, 2, and Shirley, 7 months;
John Postman, 38, New Era, Mich.; his wife, Rea, 38, and their children Mildred, 1, Howard, 8, and Clarence, 2.

SIX CHILDREN DIE IN KITCHEN OF HOME

MARYSVILLE, Mich., Jan. 1.— Six children are dead today because four year old Phyllis McClure tried to cook a New Year's dinner on her working mother's gas stove for her rag doll.

Mrs. Steve McClure, mother of four of the young victims, discovered the tragedy late New Year's eve, when she returned home from working at a salt company factory to find the six bodies scattered in confusion on the kitchen floor of her modest little home here.

The dead were Olive, 9, Rayfield, 7, Phillis, 4, and Rollin McClure, and Martha, 16, and Shirley Earl, 19.

1932 IS GIVEN REAL WELCOME IN SANTA ANA

This month work is expected to start on the new office and commercial building to be erected on the northeast corner of Fourth and Main streets by the Santa Ana Business Property Syndicate. The building will be built on the property owned by Mrs. M. French at an approximate cost of $175,000.

Another $150,000 is involved in a building program launched through the combined efforts of the Citizens' Unemployment Emergency Committee, Santa Ana post of the American Legion, City of Santa Ana, and the California National Guard. This program includes construction of a stadium auditorium and Legion hall and state armory on city property at Sixth and Olive streets. Work on the stadium, or first suit of the project is scheduled to start this month as soon as architects have completed work on the plans.

Other building and business projects still in the conversational stage are expected to materialize within a short time and business leaders are expecting a lifting of the depression in all lines of endeavor as the year progresses and there are indications of a lessening of the unemployment situation.

The bright skies which followed lifting of the heavy fog this morning brought joy to the hearts of those who had planned outdoor activities for the holiday, and many Santa Anans journeyed to Pasadena to witness the Tournament of Roses parade, which was held this morning and the Tulane-U. S. C. football game, which was scheduled for this afternoon. Many others made trips to nearby communities to visit friends and relatives on the holiday.

Church Official In Service Here

The Rev. Frank Cummings, divisional officer of the Four Square Gospel church for Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska, and pastor of the Four Square church in Kansas City, was the special speaker at the watch night service of the Santa Ana branch of the denomination last night.

An illustrated sermon on "Patches" was given by the Rev. Alice Wilson Parham, assistant pastor, and the young people of the church presented a pageant showing the departure of the old year and the coming of the new just before midnight. The congregation was in prayer as the new year opened.

UNCOVER OTHER VICTIMS STOCK SELLING DEAL

Howard Mitchell, 39, Los Angeles oil stock merchant and alleged swindler of almost a score of Orange county residents, who is in here on a charge of grand theft and a charge of issuing a fictitious check, is likely to face numerous other grand theft charges in connection with his selling activities in Santa Ana and Orange.

This was learned today when the district attorney's office announced that information of Mitchell's arrest, as printed in The Register yesterday had caused a number of local residents to confer with the district attorney regarding new complaints against the prisoner.

Among these is Dr. A. H. Domann, of Orange, who, it is said, invested $5000 in the Oil Royalties corporation, which was started here by Mitchell in 1929, and Benjamin M. Huff, Orange rancher, who is asserted to have lost $2000 in the enterprise.

Huff lost a civil action in the superior court here two weeks ago in connection with the case. According to his attorney, D. G. Wetlin, Huff was sued on a note for $2000 he had given Mitchell. Mitchell, on receipt of the note sold it to Mrs. Mae Baxter, of Anaheim. Mrs. Baxter is said to have given Mitchell a $1000 note for the $2000 note. Mitchell then discounted the $1000 note for $800, taking the cash, it was brought out in the civil proceedings here. When the notes became due, Mrs. Baxter is said to have been forced to pay both of them.

Mitchell is now under $1000 bail out of the Anaheim justice court on a charge of issuing a fictitious check to Mrs. Baxter for $150. He was arraigned yesterday afternoon, a short time after Justice Kenneth Morrison held him in $2000 bail on a charge of grand theft, that of stealing $2000 from W. M. Smith, rancher, in the stock promotion scheme.

The district attorney's office was unable today to state whether Dr. Domann or Huff would sign complaints against the prisoner, but intimated that they would, probably Monday.

A number of other Orange county residents were "fleece" in the Oil Royalties Corporation scheme, according to Preston Turner, deputy district attorney, who is handling the case, but he was unable to say today how many more complaints could be issued against Mitchell. A number of alleged victims do not want it known that they were beaten in the scheme, it was said, and therefore are not going to report their losses, including a local funeral director's firm, which is alleged to have lost $4000 in the scheme. An Anaheim doctor, who as yet has not reported to the district attorney, is reported to have lost $11,000 through investments in the Oil Royalties corporation.

A cryptic entry in Pilot Bowen's log written after the plane left Columbus at 7:30 p. m. gave foreboding of the coming tragedy. "Broken clouds-foggy-hazy" the pilot had written in a nervous hand as he turned southward.

Wenner and Mayer were killed instantly. Stone died on the way to the hospital. Pilot Bowen was reported to be conscious this morning but his condition was extremely critical, doctors said. Welback's condition was also reported as serious.

The last word heard from the ship was at 7:45 p. m., 10 minutes after it had cleared the Columbus airport. Bowen reported his position then as 10 miles south of Columbus.

After the crash was heard, farmers for some time tried to locate the wreck. When it was discovered telephone calls brought ambulances and doctors.

Pilot Bowen was still conscious when farmers arrived. He directed efforts to extricate the bodies from the jumbled mass of steel partly buried in mud. Working with picks and crowbars, the farmers pulled out the bodies of the dead and those still living before aid arrived.

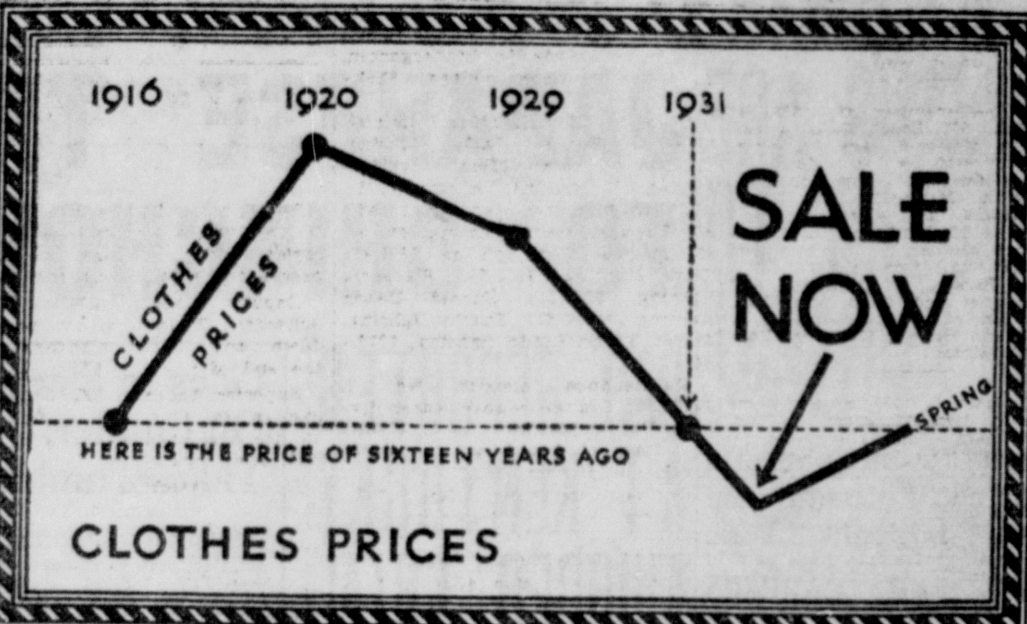

"We heard the crash," Mrs. Stone related, "but we did not know where it was. Neighbors joined my husband in the hunt and after the wreck was found they could get the dead and injured out of the plane. It was buried so deeply in the mud."

Historical Society Meet Set for Jan. 8

There will be no meeting of the Orange County Historical society tonight. The session scheduled for 7:30 p. m. today at the Ebell clubhouse has been postponed to January 8 according to an announcement yesterday by S. M. Davis, secretary.

The speaker who was to have addressed the group, Miss Orna Ross of this city, would be unable to be present if the meeting were held tonight.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

The fact that God so made you that you can endure sorrow is a warrant for your believing that communion with your dearest one was not ended by the separation which men call "death."

It is the salvation of your God-given tasks that the sense of that one's presence does not so dominate every hour, that you would be tempted to divorce yourself from doing your duty. In order to live in the sense of communion with your best beloved.

Do not doubt the reality of the nearness of your dear one simply because its intensity it will become more truly yours as you courageously take up your daily work and strive to do it well.

Y. Muro, Santa Ana, was arrested shortly after midnight on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, after he is alleged to have shot a pistol near Fourth and Garfield streets several times, in celebration of the new year. He also was drunk, officers said.

The other prisoner is Joe Muro, who was with Y. Muro, at the time. Joe also was drunk, police reported.

POLISH BEAUTY, MARRIED HERE, SUED BY SPOUSE

A romance with international aspects which culminated in Santa Ana several months ago with the marriage here of a famous Polish dancer and a wealthy Los Angeles hair dealer, reached a puzzling climax yesterday when the husband sued the wife for divorce.

The wife is Janina Smolinska, who was proclaimed Miss Poland in 1928 at an international beauty contest at Paris. The husband is Walter Grabowski, 333 1/2 Parkman avenue, Los Angeles, who married Miss Smolinska on September 3 after securing a marriage license here.

Miss Smolinska married Grabowski ostensibly to escape deportation as a non quota immigrant. She had promised to return to Poland after the wedding, according to official records. If she returned to this country thereafter she could be admitted as the wife of an American citizen. She came to the United States in 1929 and at a hearing on August 6 before Immigration Inspector Dixon she is said to have overstayed her one year permit. If deported she would be barred forever from re-entering this country, according to immigration laws.

Now the romance has a strictly "modern novel" ending. It will leave the reader scratching his head to decide whether there will be a reconciliation which will allow Miss Smolinska to return here from Poland as the wife of a citizen, or whether Grabowski will insist on a divorce. The latter outcome, it would appear, would be definitely the dancer's stay in this country.

The hair dealer complained that on December 28 his wife attacked him in bed when he remonstrated with her for returning home at 6 a. m. After striking him with her fist and making his lip bleed he called her a "worm" and emphasized her remarks with a "blunt instrument," the complain said.

OFFICER FRUSTRATES BURGLARY ATTEMPT

An attempt to burglarize the Foster Barker Music company at 309 West Fourth street, early last night was frustrated when Officer Roy Hartley surprised a youthful burglar in the store tampering with the cash register.

The officer rushed to the rear and the burglar escaped through the front door. A woman, standing near the store told police she saw the youth leave and was able to give a good description of him to officers.

Investigation showed that the cash register in the music store was not opened, although it had been tampered with, police said.

BULLET TAKES LIFE OF CHILD AS YEAR ENDS

Anything but a happy new year was in prospect today for Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Jenks, of 1710 Tustin avenue, for today their two and a half year old daughter, Betty Mae, lay in an Orange undertaking parlor, the tragic victim of a peculiar accident.

The child died at the Orange county hospital late yesterday afternoon from a gunshot wound in the head, received when a pistol, which accidentally fell from a shelf in the linen closet of the home, fired as it hit the floor, the bullet going through her brain.

According to J. B. Castile, deputy coroner, who made an investigation, the baby was playing at home, and attempted to pull a number of clothes from a shelf on top of these, and as she tugged, the gun toppled from the shelf to the floor, exploding.

The baby was rushed to the Orange county hospital where she was treated by Dr. F. L. Chapline of Orange. She died without regaining consciousness. The body was removed to the Coffey Undertaking parlors.

Church Members Work On Quilts

ORANGE, Jan. 1.—Quilts and comforters occupied the attention of Loyal Women of the Christian church who attended the all-day meeting of the society held yesterday in the church. The group tied three comforters for the local welfare store and worked on quilts for two members of the Loyal Women.

During the business session, which convened early in the afternoon under the leadership of Mrs. V. A. Wood, it was announced that Wednesday and Friday afternoons, January 6 and 8, will be devoted to quilting. Members are to meet in the church.

It was decided that the fourth Thursday of the month will be observed as the regular meeting time for the society in January. About 40 members were present to take part in the affair. Members of a committee, including Mrs. F. L. Alsworth, Mrs. B. M. Huff, Mrs. Arthur Farwell and Mrs. Minnie Nevill, made plans for the meeting and for the afternoon devotionals.

BEACH WOMAN FILES $100,000 DAMAGE SUIT

Charging that she was betrayed under promise of marriage, Mrs. Fairy Hanson, proprietor of the Huntington hotel at 228 1-2 Main street, Huntington Beach, has filed suit in Los Angeles against Louis L. Garrigues, of Santa Monica, seeking $100,000 damages.

Mrs. Hanson, a widow and the mother of two children, asserts in her suit that Garrigues, a real estate broker, began his courtship in April, 1928, and many times introduced her to friends as his wife. Garrigues, a retired Army major, formerly was in the real estate business in Balboa, moving to Santa Monica several years ago. Mrs. Hanson's action was filed by Attorney Charles P. Temple.

FORMER GERMAN WAR ACE IS RESIDENT OF ANAHEIM AND RECALLS DAYS BACK IN '17

Seventeen, was Rudolph Schad, back in 1917, when he celebrated his first New Year's eve at the front during the Big War, and he was not yet a famous German ace, known for his skill in bringing down the enemy planes, nor did he then hold the Iron Cross of the first and second class or the two medals of the State of Saxony that he now has for his daring, his courage and his devotion to his country.

On that last night of '17, he recalls, now, as he contentedly pursues his work in the Danz Music company and as the vice president of the Julius Bluthner company of Leipzig, Germany, which makes pianos and carries on the whole-sale and retail business in the United States through the Danz Music company, he was happy with excitement, the song and the drink that was the means of celebrating the squadron commander's bestowal of the greatest medal the German army could grant.

The new year was ushered in with toasts and merry-making and it was 12:15 when there was a crash and the first bomb from a French plane hit one of the German air field. Within a half hour all the hangars were ablaze and the planes destroyed.

"Many of the officers were drunk," Schad declared, "and when the first bomb fell one of the officers ran to a closet and thrust his head into it, thinking that he could save himself this way, while his feet and body dangled in the air. Another officer dove under the table, but when the firing stopped none were hurt and the next day we all received new planes."

Ten years from that time, in 1926, he was in Hollywood directing the German air scenes in "Hell's Angels" and he met there a British air captain who was directing the English flying scenes. Giving proof that the world is small and coincidences numerous they soon discovered that it was Schad who had shot the same British captain's plane down into the German lines, wounding and taking him prisoner. And though the scene was bitter warfare then, 10 years later it was Hollywood and peace. Schad has directed the air scenes in such other war pictures as "Lilac Time," "Legion of the Condemned" and "Dawn Patrol."

The ace was never wounded, but once his plane was brought down, and although it was smashed, he landed unhurt in the German trenches.

In 1918 on New Year's eve he was at his home in Germany, and like everyone else the world over was thankful that there was peace and rejoicing that the war was over. The next year he was in Copenhagen, Denmark, and in 1920-21 he was in England. There, like everywhere else, the new year was ushered in amidst noise and ringing bells. Between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock the bells and chimes in steeples and churches rang three times for 15 minutes with a five-minute interval.

In 1925 he was in Anaheim celebrating with his Anaheim relatives in quiet fashion.

The 1932 celebration will be important in the life of this same Rudolph Schad for it will mark his first celebration as a citizen of the United States as he received his final citizenship papers six months ago. He will continue to carry on here the work in which he is so much interested.

Men of the 72nd Congress

By Rodney Dutcher

JOHN QUILLIN TILSON
Of Connecticut

"Poor Tilson." . . . When Nick Longworth died it seemed as if he would be spoken, second in political power only to his idol, President Hoover. He was majority floor leader under Longworth. . . . Now just a congressman, defeated for the Republican nomination for speaker and chased out of the minority leadership by smart "Hard-boiled" Snell. . . . Third member of the erstwhile all-powerful Longworth-Tilson-Snell house oligarchy. . . . Six feet tall, with erect military bearing, bushy eyebrows and close-cropped gray mustache, Tilson was dwarfed in personality by Longworth. . . . Hobby: Army ordinance. He served in Spanish-American war and on Mexican border. . . . Worked way through Yale, practiced law. Once speaker in Connecticut legislature, though born in east Tennessee mountains. Came to congress 1906. Always outside the Connecticut Republican state machine or might have been senator. . . . Quite wet, but soft-pedals that through devotion to dry Hoover. . . . Significance of recent defeat and present position: He was Hoover's intimate friend, more loyal to administration than Snell or Longworth. Hoover took him into White House when he was ill. Tilson even voted against bonus loans to support Hoover. Considered administration candidate when Snell defeated him by superior strategy, forceful ability. . . . A good parliamentarian. . . . Managed G.O.P. eastern group in bureau in '28, after co-leading Hoover pre-convention campaign. . . . Lived at a big hotel. Goes to work with Congressman Florence Kahn, California. . . . His pants pockets tailored in front, instead of side-wise.

NEXT: Jim Ham Lewis of Illinois.

DISTRIBUTION OF ADDITIONAL FUNDS LISTED

Distribution of approximately $200,000 to stockholders and depositors by banks of Santa Ana gives a prosperous touch to the opening of 1932. The exact amount to be distributed in this city could not be learned as figures were not available relative to the local distribution of interest and dividends by the Bank of America, and the Security-First National reported its distribution for the three Orange county branches as a total. In Orange county the three branches of that organization distributed a total of $103,167. It is believed that more than a third of the bank's fund distribution will be in Santa Ana. The Farmers and Merchants Bank of Santa Ana cut a $10,000 meager for its stockholders in the form of a dividend and distributed approximately $50,000 as interest on term deposits.

These figures added to the $24,500 distributed by the First National bank in dividends and interest and the $11,000 interest paid depositors in the Commercial National bank in addition to the unreported distribution by the Bank of America will bring the total by Santa Ana banks up to at least the $200,000 mark.

Building and Loan companies here have previously reported interest and dividend payments totaling $43,000.

Shibasaburo Kitasato, bacteriologist of the Imperial and Kitasato Institutes of Japan, died on June 13. He was born at Kumamoto, Japan, in 1856 and after studying in Japan went to Germany where he spent the years of 1885 to 1901 in experimental work under Robert Koch. On returning to Japan he established the Institute for the study of infectious diseases which later became the Imperial Institute. Kitasato is best known for his work on Tetanus, Diphtheria, and the mode of infection in tuberculosis and for his discoveries of the bacillus of the bubonic plague in 1894 and that of dysentery in 1898. Neguchi spoke of Kitasato as the greatest of modern bacteriologists.

Stephen M. Babcock, professor of agricultural chemistry in the University of Wisconsin Experiment station, died on July 1. Babcock, who is probably best known for his chemical test for butterfat in milk, was born in Bridge-water, New York, Oct. 22, 1843. After graduating from Tufts college he continued the study of physiological chemistry in Cornell college and at Göttingen in Germany. On his return to the United States he became chemist for the New York Agricultural Experiment station at Geneva in 1882. While engaged in livestock feeding experiments Babcock performed some tests which proved empirical chemical formulas to be insufficient for the determination of the food value of any animal. Continuing his feeding experiments on cattle Babcock further showed by the resulting bad condition of cows fed only on wheat that there is a complete ration other essential than the more obvious protein, carbohydrate, fat, and mineral salts which had hitherto been

GROUP OF GREAT SCIENTISTS CALLED FROM LABORS BY DEATH DURING LAST YEAR

By C. V. ROBINSON

The year 1931 has taken an unusually large toll from the ranks of the world's leading scientific workers. Among the many mustered out of service this year are: James Perrin Smith, George P. Dreyer, John Henry Comstock, Albert A. Michelson, Frank W. Clarke, Shibasaburo Kitasato, Stephen M. Babcock, Arthur Starr Eakle, Richard Fullerton Penrose, Aristides Agramonte, David Starr Jordan, Thomas Alva Edison and David Bruce.

James P. Smith, professor of geology in Stanford university for 35 years, died on the first day of January. Born in South Carolina November 27, 1864, he studied geology in his native state and after a short period of service with the United States Geological survey he went to Göttingen and Munich, where he specialized in paleontology.

Professor Smith began teaching in Stanford during the opening year of 1891 and was actively associated with this institution until a few years ago, when he was retired as professor emeritus of geology. During his years of teaching Professor Smith was always deeply interested in the geology of California and did a great deal of work towards the unraveling of the geologic history of the state. Among his many works is a description of the geologic formations of California, published by the State Mining bureau. Dr. Smith also served as geologist on the United States geological survey from 1906 to 1924.

George P. Dreyer, professor of physiology in the University of Illinois since 1900, died on February 27. He was born in Baltimore September 22, 1866. "Professor Dreyer is best known for his discovery of the secretory nerves of the suprarenal glands and for his work on blood proteins and differential respiration."

John Henry Comstock, called the father of entomology in the United States, died on March 20, following his wife and co-worker, Anna Botsford Comstock, by half a year. He was born February 24, 1849, in Janesville, Wis. "Between these two dates, the career of one who arose from poverty and pioneer hardship to world service and honor."

While the science of entomology was still in its infancy in Europe Comstock was organizing the department of insect study at Cornell. Largely through his organization, research, writing and teaching the science has matured in this country and there are now hundreds of workers and teachers who have gained knowledge of the ways of insects from Professor Comstock. It is estimated that he taught more than 5000 students.

Among his best works are his well known "Manual for the Study of Insects" and "An Introduction to Entomology."

Albert A. Michelson, professor of physics in the University of Chicago, was born in Stelma, Germany, December 19, 1852. All the world knew of the passing of this great classical physicist on May 9. Among his many inventions the most important was, perhaps, the direct interferometer used in the determination of the diameters of distant stars. "It was in measurements relating to the interference of light and the speed of light that he was by far the greatest expert the world has yet seen."

Frank W. Clarke, chemist and geologist. On May 23 the United States Geological survey lost one of its best and tireless workers. Born in Boston, March 19, 1847 and educated in Harvard college, Dr. Clarke served as professor of chemistry in the University of Cincinnati from 1874 to 1883 when he became chief chemist of the United States Geological survey. Dr. Clarke is best known for his compilation of the "Data of Geochemistry." His work on the constitution of silicates, thermo-chemical calculations, and the calculation of atomic weights afford him a place well in the front ranks of our great chemists.

Shibasaburo Kitasato, bacteriologist of the Imperial and Kitasato Institutes of Japan, died on June 13. He was born at Kumamoto, Japan, in 1856 and after studying in Japan went to Germany where he spent the years of 1885 to 1901 in experimental work under Robert Koch. On returning to Japan he established the Institute for the study of infectious diseases which later became the Imperial Institute. Kitasato is best known for his work on Tetanus, Diphtheria, and the mode of infection in tuberculosis and for his discoveries of the bacillus of the bubonic plague in 1894 and that of dysentery in 1898. Neguchi spoke of Kitasato as the greatest of modern bacteriologists.

Stephen M. Babcock, professor of agricultural chemistry in the University of Wisconsin Experiment station, died on July 1. Babcock, who is probably best known for his chemical test for butterfat in milk, was born in Bridge-water, New York, Oct. 22, 1843. After graduating from Tufts college he continued the study of physiological chemistry in Cornell college and at Göttingen in Germany. On his return to the United States he became chemist for the New York Agricultural Experiment station at Geneva in 1882. While engaged in livestock feeding experiments Babcock performed some tests which proved empirical chemical formulas to be insufficient for the determination of the food value of any animal. Continuing his feeding experiments on cattle Babcock further showed by the resulting bad condition of cows fed only on wheat that there is a complete ration other essential than the more obvious protein, carbohydrate, fat, and mineral salts which had hitherto been considered sufficient for the maintenance of health and life—a finding which set physiologists seeking the vitamins.

Arthur Starr Eakle, professor of mineralogy in the University of California, died during July in Hawaii. Dr. Eakle was born in Washington, D.C., July 27, 1862. After studying in Cornell and Munich Dr. Eakle came to Berkeley where he has been teaching since 1903 being one of the strongest men in the department of geology. Professor Eakle's most important work, "Minerals of California," is published by the state mining bureau.

Richard Fullerton Penrose, geologist, died on July 31. He was born in Philadelphia December 17, 1863. His graduation thesis from Harvard on "The Nature and Origin of Deposits of Phosphate of Lime," was immediately published by the United States geological survey. After some time spent with the geological survey in Texas and Arkansas became professor of geology in University of Chicago in 1892. In the field of economic geology Dr. Penrose specialized in copper, familiarizing himself with every copper district in the world. He has written many papers on the nature and origin of ore deposits. So successfully did he apply his knowledge to mining investments that on his death he left over ten million dollars. This entire fortune he gave to the American Philosophical society and the Geological Society of America.

Aristides Agramonte, the yellow fever commissioner and professor of tropical diseases in the Louisiana State Medical school died on August 17. He was born in Camaguey, Cuba, June 3, 1859. Educated in the public schools of New York City he later graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia university. After a short period as bacteriologist for the city of New York Dr. Agramonte enlisted in the United States army and served "as a collaborator of Doctors Lazaar, Reed and Carroll in their great experiment leading to the discovery of the mosquito as the source of yellow fever."

David Starr Jordan, educator and naturalist, died on September 19. Born in Gainesville, New York, January 19, 1851. His life is well known to all students of science. After graduating in zoology from Cornell university he served as professor of zoology in University of Indiana from 1879 to 1885 when he was made president of that institution. President Jordan introduced many radical changes of education into the university. Among these one of the first was the allowance to the student of more freedom in the selection of his curriculum. On the opening of Stanford university in 1891 Dr. Jordan was called to be its first president and staff organizer. The fine reputation and high standards of this school are partly due to Dr. Jordan's good judgment in selecting and organizing the faculty. Dr. Jordan was primarily an ichthyologist, having done much work on the morphology and taxonomy of fishes from all parts of the world. His latest work, published only a short time before his death, was the "Check List of the Fishes of North and Middle America." "Dr. Jordan was a great teacher; great, whether the subject be geology, botany, entomology, invertebrate marine zoology, ornithology, ichthyology, general biology or evolution; or the languages, as German, French or Norwegian." He was also an advocate of world peace and a continual source of encouragement to students of science.

Thomas Alva Edison, physicist and inventor, died October 18. Born in Milan, Ohio, February 11, 1847, Edison was one of the quickest to apply science to invention. Vernon Kellogg said on Edison's death, "Thomas Edison used science for the benefit of mankind to such a high degree, and brought science and scientific method into such high repute in the public regard, that it is an open question which of these two great contributions to modern civilization is the greater. Certain it is, that no other man of our generation has made a larger or more inspiring contribution."

David Bruce, microbiologist, who passed away November 27, was a hard fearless worker in regions of frightful pestilence. Born in Melbourne, Australia, May 29, 1853, David Bruce studied medicine in Scotland. He enlisted as an army physician and rose to the rank of a knighted major-general through his investigations of tropical infectious diseases. His victorious conquests were the discovery of the small bacillus of Malta fever and its mode of transmission from the udder of the goat, the discovery of the trypanosome of the nagana cattle plague of Central Africa and its mode of transmission by the tsetse fly, and the discovery of the trypanosome and its mode of transmission (also by the tsetse fly) of sleeping sickness in tropical Africa. During all these investigations Sir David Bruce was exposed to danger and as subject to death as while serving as an army surgeon during the siege of Ladysmith.

Each of these workers was given a long span of life in which to complete his task of improving mankind through the development of scientific knowledge.

SCHEDULE OF RESOLUTIONS FOR FARMERS

(Prepared by University of California)

The King is dead. Long live the King. Behind us is 1931. Ahead of us is 1932.

What will the new year bring to California agriculture? To the 335,000 farm units that comprise the farm enterprise of the state?

Much depends on the resolutions we make and keep. Each and every one of us can do much for ourselves, no matter what conditions are.

It's all right to wait for general business and agricultural improvement. But while we're waiting, can't we resolve to help ourselves?

Here goes, then, for 1932 agricultural resolutions. To how many of them can you subscribe?

I pledge myself, for 1932, to do the best farming I've ever done. To carry this pledge out, I'll adopt another resolution.

I pledge myself, for 1932, to work with and use the help of every constructive agency and institution that can be of assistance to me.

In that resolution, I'll include the College of Agriculture, and its three divisions: the state Department of Agriculture, my own organizations, the Farm Bureau Federation, the Grange, the Farmers' Union, the various co-operative marketing associations.

To cut my costs of production, to stop my farm leaks, to change my losses into profits, so far as humanly possible, I'll call on the state college of agriculture, county farm advisors, its extension specialists, its research staff, to help me.

I'll attend agricultural extension service meetings, whenever I can, to profit from the experience of others.

I'll keep cost account records, supplied to me by my farm adviser. I'll study cost data efficiency studies.

I'll co-operate with the state Department of Agriculture in its regulatory and agricultural police work. To this end, I'll work with the agricultural commissioner of my county, in keeping pests and weeds out, in working toward better standards of farm products.

I'll join with my neighbors in studying co-operative marketing. And, wherever my products fit in, I'll join my own group in selling co-operatively, and help make it a success.

So far as I can, I'll support my own organizations. By taking active part, I'll help in their and my success.

I pledge, for 1932, to give my boys and girls every chance to join in and succeed with their 4-H club projects.

I'll welcome the help to my wife and daughters that comes through county home remembrance agent work.

So far as I can, I'll follow the recommendation of state and federal authorities, that production be regulated to demand.

For myself, I shall try hard to get maximum production per unit of production, at the lowest possible costs, and with the highest possible profits.

I'm going into 1932 with an optimistic outlook. A better day is bound to come.

The old-timers solved their farm problems. We can do the same. It takes work, intelligence, faith, courage, co-operation. All these will be planks in my platform of resolutions for 1932.

The King is dead. Long live the King!

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. HAS LOOKED FAR INTO THE NEW YEAR—AND ACTED

ACTUALLY ANTICIPATING EVEN ITS OWN LOW PRICES OF 1932

EVERY piece of merchandise in Montgomery Ward's has, during the last week, been marked to the lowest level we could anticipate for 1932.

This tremendous adjustment of prices to meet future conditions steps far out beyond present day values.

It has required actual markdowns totaling, on the Pacific Coast, literally hundreds of thousands of dollars — well beyond a million.

Provision for new merchandise at prices to meet future estimates has required further sacrifice by manufacturers and ourselves.

With the New Year, this bold swing into the future definitely brings to every thrifty-minded person opportunities to save beyond any reasonable expectation of the moment:

It brings last year's $85.00 washing machine market at $53.95.

It brings last year's $1.65 silk hosiery at 89c.

It brings better than last year's $35 men's suits at $17.95.

It brings better than last year's $145 radio at $49.95.

It brings last year's $9.45 Wardoleum rug at $6.45.

In short, it brings such extensive economies in all types of merchandise that no one interested in economy (and who is not?) can actually afford not to share in the great existing opportunity to do so.

Nor has there been any compromise, any, even slight, deviation in the rigorous standards of quality which for sixty years have characterized Montgomery Ward & Co. and merited the confidence of the nation.

1932 is the Sixtieth Anniversary Year of the company.

A year which Montgomery Ward & Co. looks upon as holding for it an unprecedented opportunity to serve the nation in a time of enforced economy and continued demand for quality and dependability.

This service is now in effect.

It is confidently offered to EVERYONE, in the knowledge that those who have hitherto never considered looking to Montgomery Ward & Co. for the things they need, will find a new and thrilling means of saving without cheapening.

To the millions of old friends the activities of our 60th Anniversary year are gratefully dedicated.

MONTGOMERY WARD & Co.

ENRICHMENT OF SELF IS URGED BY EDUCATOR

"All good wishes for the coming year are expressed to the adults of the community by the adult education department of the city schools," said Mrs. Golden Weston, director, today. "Add to your new year resolutions the plan of self-enrichment. Many opportunities are given through the classes of the evening high schools for cultural improvement, the learning of new techniques and guidance in creative work. It is not how long we live but how much we live.

"New life interests are often found in individual participation in creative work. Opportunities along these lines are offered by the pottery classes Wednesday and Thursday evenings at Willard, room 101; the general craft class Wednesday at Willard, room 116; the Art craft class, Tuesday evenings at Lathrop, room 40; the cooking class on Thursday at Willard, room 218; sewing class on Tuesday at Lathrop, room 17; interior decoration, Monday, high school bungalow.

"More efficient self-expression may be acquired in the public speaking class on Wednesday evenings, room 15 at Lathrop; in the English class on Tuesday at Lathrop, room 15; the English class on Tuesday at Willard, room 109; and English for nationals, Junior college building, room 201; the clogging class at Lathrop in the music room on Wednesday evenings; sight singing on Tuesday at Lathrop in the music room, verse speaking choir on Tuesday at Lathrop, room 37.

"The ability to express yourself in the languages of other peoples may be gained through the Spanish classes. All Spanish classes offered during the last term will be continued on the same nights, the same places, the same rooms and the same teachers as last term. One new class, in beginning Spanish, is being offered on Monday evenings, room 207, of the Junior college with Mrs. Annie T. Bethencourt. French is offered on Monday and Tuesday evenings in room 205 of the Junior college under the direction of Madame Ollivier, a French woman. German is offered on Wednesday evenings at Willard in room 103 under the efficient guidance of Miss Aurelia Koch.

"Better understanding of human relations may be gained through the mental hygiene class on Tuesday evenings in room 213 of the Junior college building; commercial law on Monday evenings in room 11 of the Junior college; the Forum on Tuesday evenings, in room 11 of the Junior college.

"Further details are given each day at 12:30 p. m. over KREG, together with a special program for shut-ins. Again we say, Happy New Year."

DEMPSEY SAYS HIS 'COMEBACK' SERIOUS

The Sports Year In Movies No Work Open To Rose Bowl 'Goat'

RIEGELS FINDS FAME ADVERSE: FAILS ON STAGE

BY JAMES F. WICKIZER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

OAKLAND, Jan. 1.—(UP)—Tidal waves, whether they be green or any other color, may have been capable of bowling over less sturdy Trojan horses, but the Tulane Green Wave has little possibility of wrecking the U. S. C. Trojans' horse this year when the two great football teams clash in Pasadena's Tournament of Roses game today.

This was how Roy (Wrong Way) Riegels, among the greatest of many California Golden Bear captains, whose famous "wrong way" run in the Georgia Tech game of 1929 made him the most outstanding personage in New Year's day football history, looked at the situation today.

But Riegels won't be on hand to witness the spectacle.

He told the United Press he would "see" the game at his home here, via the family radio.

Just an Ex-Griddle Now

The same fate that swept him to the pinnacle of gridiron fame has turned on Riegels. He said he now finds himself "just another ex-college player trying to land a job." He has tried coaching, the movies, and more recently "personal appearances" on a movie palace stage.

Riegels held the national spotlight for sporting pages after his famous "wrong way" play in the Georgia Tech-California contest at Pasadena in 1929. The husky California captain, dazed by a previous play, scrambled into a pile of legs and arms, recovered his own team's fumble and dashed 70 yards in the direction of the Georgia Tech goal line before he was stopped on the five-yard line by Benny Lom, a teammate. With the ball thus advantageously placed, Tech scored on the next play by blocking a punt.

He endured nobly the jeers that followed the run and was the recipient of stacks of "fan" mail.

Played "Bit" Parts in Films

Having completed his playing days, he became head freshman coach during his senior year, and with a degree in agriculture tucked under his arm he left the university May last, headed for Hollywood.

There, under the tutelage of Rupert Hughes, he crashed the movies as technical adviser and "bit" actor in the picture "Touchdown."

From the movies, Riegels turned to the stage. As the first football hero of national prominence to enter the ranks of the personal-appearance actors, he made his debut in a San Francisco movie cathedral last November. While news reels of the famous run flickered on the screen Roy explained the play in the traditionally shy manner of football heroes.

His "act" proved a hit with bay region fans, but managers of the theater chain failed to see its merits for the "road."

Now, as ex-football hero, ex-coach, ex-movie director and actor, ex-personal appearance artist, Riegels thinks he'll add this year at least—ex-football spectator.

BRAVES DEPEND ON NEW INFELD GROUP

BOSTON, Jan. 1.—If the Boston Braves do not place in the first division in the coming year, Bill McKee, veteran manager, can lean back in his Hub sanctum and rest assured that it was no fault of his.

Since the close of the National League season, McKee has made many changes. He has torn his infield to shreds and scattered it about the country.

Johnny Neun, Earl Sheely and Freddy Maguire have gone. Art Shires, Bill Urbanski and Fred Knothe, a big third sacker from the Coast, will take their places next year. Catcher Bill Cronin and pitcher Hal Hald have been sent to the coast, and outfielder Lane Richbourg has been sold to the Chicago Cubs.

Financially, the Braves enjoyed their most successful campaign last season since 1914, when they won the world's championship by defeating the Athletics in four straight games.

WIN PERCENTAGE

Texas Aggies football teams have played 273 games from 1894 through 1931, with a record of 185 games won, 71 lost and 17 tied. The total points in the games for the Aggies was 5965—averaging 18.5 per game—as against 1391 points for the opponents—an average of five per cent.

WILLS DEFENDS CROWN

TEXAS CHRISTIAN AND BAYLOR UNIVERSITIES in the southwest have been meeting on the gridiron since 1901, though not every year. They have played 38 games, three in each of the years 1904 and 1907, and two games a season in several other years.

1931 BANNER YEAR FOR YOUNG HEAVIES

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—"The year, 1931 has been a banner year for young heavyweights," Jimmy Johnston, manager of Madison Square Garden, said today.

"These people who claim the heavyweight situation is doomed are pessimists. When Sharkey, Schmeling, Strickling and the rest of the old guard pass from the picture we'll have a multitude of this year's prospects in the big picture."

"Schaaf, Hamas, Retzlaff, Baer, Levinsky and perhaps one or two others less known will be on top in a year or two."

"Sharkey through? Well, hardly. He has a year or two to go yet. But after that Jack will sign off. The same goes for Loughran and Walker. These boys know better than any one else that they can't go on forever."

"The best of the up-and-comers? I guess Schaaf cops honors in that respect."

Hamas has plenty of color and may go somewhere with the right handling. He can't be pushed too fast. Retzlaff is a prospect. So is Baer, who seems to be improving every day."

WEST INDIES

HERE'S THERE LOCAL SPORTS

Ed Daley's homer to left-center that won the final contest of the Santa Ana-Anaheim night baseball series, and the maniacal ecstasy of Santa Ana fans who had no reason to believe their team would or could win. . . . The same Ed Daley's homer with the bases full that decided an earlier game of the series. . . .

"Porky" Bell's 72-yard run to a touchdown against San Diego, with long-legged Walter Cleveland striding alongside. This was the run that broke San Diego's heart, gave Santa Ana the Coast Preparatory league championship. . . .

"Toy" Blower's 45-yard forward pass to Jimmie Lash against Covina, and Lash's catch, as nonchalant as if he were merely asking his aunt for another piece of pie. . . .

Steady Eddie Holmes' 25-foot putt on the 36th green to square his Santa Ana Country club championship match with B. Z. McKinney, an impossible angle shot that paved the way for Holmes' fifth successive city title. . . .

The riot of Santa Ana fans that followed Leavitt Daley's attack on Umpire Leo Wagner after the last game of the Star-Colton series, and the awful realization of what might have happened had the milling mob possessed a leader. . . .

Bob Mitchell's basket in the last minute of play against Glendale that gave Santa Ana an entirely unexpected victory over the best high school basketball team in Southern California. It was Santa Ana's only win of the conference season, but it was almost worth all the spankings. . . .

Carroll's return of a kick-off for a touchdown in the Santa Ana-Fullerton junior college game. . . .

Paul Jacques' leap of 6 feet 4 1/2 inches in the California State prep meet, a mark beaten but twice in the history of high school jumpers. . . .

Dispatches relating how little Evelyn Furtch of Tustin had run second in the 100-yard dash at the Women's Nationals at Jersey City, beating among others the world's champion, Stella Walsh. . . .

As I write, they come crowding on scene after scene. Each is touched with local semi-greatness. It has been fine, after all, this year. . . .

Fred Lentz recently won the third flight of the Santa Ana Country club's annual championship golf tournament without playing a match. J. I. Clark forfeited to him in the first round, B. J. MacMullen in the second round, J. L. Allen in the third round and N. J. Warner in the final round. . . .

Willard Hershberger, former Fullerton school athlete, last year a successful catcher for the El Paso club of the Arizona State league, has been sold to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league for a reputed consideration of $1500. Hershberger is keeping in shape by playing Sunday baseball with the Santa Ana team of the Southern California Winter league. . . .

Those Arua Caliente racing bars are beginning to realize they cater to a public that must be pleased. The border track re-opens today with the interests of Mr. John J. Fan taken somewhat into consideration for the first time. Admission prices have been reduced to $1 for both men and women. Tuesdays and Fridays will be gratis to women. Caliente has been very snooty in the past, hastens now to make amends, will have a hard time coaxing customers back. . . .

Oh, it will be about 27-7.

THE KICK-BACK

Those bridge players, Lenz, Culbertson, et al., received a lot of publicity out of their marathon match, but some of it must have been not so very valuable. Each side made its share of dumb plays. Proving that even those who write books can make mistakes. . . .

HIS ONE "VICE"

John (Hurricane) Cain, sensational southpaw kicker, and passer on Alabama's 1930 and 1931 football elevens, is a star of first rank, a capable student, popular with his student body—but reads magazine after magazine of western stories. . . .

MAGIAS BOXES CORBETT IF HE BEATS MURDOCK

Jesus ("Wild Man") Macias, rugged Santa Ana Mexican boxer, has been assured a title match with Young Corbett of Fresno, state champion and "uncrowned king" of world welterweights, if Macias defeats Eddie Murdock at Hollywood American Legion stadium next Friday night.

Roger L. Shipley, Macias' manager, says he has a written guarantee to this effect from Hollywood promoters. The winner of the Macias-Murdock main event will go back to the Legion against Corbett January 18, Shipley said.

Murdock, a tough trial horse who is considerably more experienced than the 20-year-old "Wild Man," recently outpointed Macias in a four-round spot at Hollywood but Manager Shipley believes his protégé can reverse the decision over the 10-round route, which will be the distance next week. Murdock is unofficially rated as the fourth best welterweight in the country.

Shipley also has another member of his stable in an important bout next Friday in the person of Urban Hernandez, Placentia lightweight. Hernandez has been inactive for several months but "came back" last week and decisively defeated Jack McKnight at Wilmington. McKnight previously has run up seven successive knockouts. Hernandez will go to San Diego Friday to fight Johnny (The Bandit) Romero, a clever southpaw, with the winner tentatively assigned to face Charley Cobb January 11.

ON HANDSHAKING

Joe Jacobs and James J. Johnston shook hands the other day. The manager of Max Schmeling and the matchmaker at Madison Square Garden have cherished mutually a lifelong enmity. But now that Mr. Jacobs has a commodity called Max Schmeling, which commodity Mr. Johnston would like to market, why not shake hands? Ah! Life is beautiful, after all. . . .

MR. MACK'S TEAM

Connie Mack took pen in hand the other day and picked an all-star team, based upon his observations of 47 years in baseball. And in the outfield were Messrs. Cobb, Speaker and Ruth. But Al Simmons will ask for a raise again for next season just the same. . . .

NOT LEFTY GROVE

The pitcher on Mr. Mack's team would be Christy Mathewson. In a few years more Mr. Mack probably will change his mind about that one, too. Mathewson was a great pitcher. But how about Grove? . . .

NOT MICKEY, EITHER

The catcher on Mr. Mack's team was "Buck" Ewing. Giants' backstop in ancient days. In making that choice, do you imagine Mack was thinking back to the last world series when "Pepper" Martin made "Mickey" Cochrane look like Rodin's Thinker. . . .

HONORS EDDIE

The only present member of the Athletics staff chosen for the team was Coach Eddie Collins, nominated at second base. Isn't it rather odd that no player on the team which won three straight pennants and two world championships for Mack was deemed good enough for an all-time team? . . .

BLAH! BLAH! BLAH!

Among the season's least interesting challenges was that breath-taking deft hurled into the teeth of Jack Dempsey by the terrible, awful, fierce, violent Sharkey man. Ho hum! . . .

ROBIN TROUBLES

Max Carey hasn't even managed the Brooklyn ball team in a single game, yet his troubles are proceeding under a full head of steam. He needs an outfielder; Glenn Wright is taking treatments for mushy ankles, and Del Bissanotte underwent an operation the other day on his throwing arm. Wright and Bissanotte will be gamblers when the season opens. And Mr. Carey "ain't seen nuthin' yet." . . .

TWO ALL-AMERICAN STARS

Two All-America players faced the camera in Hollywood the other day, and it wasn't exactly a new experience to either. The petite lady is Miss Dorothy Jordan, screen actress. Her escort is Gerald (Jerry) Dairymple, All-America end and captain of the Tulane Green Wave that encounters Southern California in the Rose Bowl football classic today.

RECONCILIATION WITH ESTELLE IS IMPOSSIBLE

BY MILLER HOLLAND
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—(INS)—"I'm not engaged to any Utah hessess. I'm not engaged to anybody. I'm not seeking a reconciliation with my divorced wife, Estelle Taylor."

Jack Dempsey talking.

The former heavyweight champion, who will "shoot the work" during 1932 in a "one and last attempt" to regain his title, was answering a lot of questions for International News Service.

The picture of health, and as genial as ever, Jack talked while a barber shaved him in a suite at the William Taylor hotel.

"If I don't make the grade this time," he said, "then I'll know it's no use."

"The gloves will be put aside for all time."

Scuffs at Reconciliation

Dempsey scoffed at the suggestion that his real purpose in going to Southern California today was to attempt a reconciliation with Estelle and "start the New Year right."

"That's not so," he declared through a steaming towel that the tonsorial artist wrapped all over

FATHERS AND DAUGHTERS TO BANQUET FEB. 5

ORANGE, Jan. 1.—Definite plans for the first annual father and daughter dinner of the Presbyterian church were made at a meeting held at the church this week. The dinner is to be held at 6:30 o'clock February 5 at the church. Miss Hazel Campbell is to be the toastmistress of the evening. Miss Campbell is the daughter of D. F. Campbell, of North Cambridge. President Walter F. Dexter of Whittier college will give the principal address. A toast to the fathers will be given by Miss Betty Stork and the toast to the daughters by W. O. Hart. Other features of the program are being planned by the committee. The committee in charge is as follows: Lucien Flippin, chairman; Miss Fern Sumner, Miss Hazel Campbell, Miss Louise Deane, Miss Martha Huscroft, Miss Alice Anthony, Henry S. Campbell, W. O. Hart and Roy R. Willis.

Mrs. Cal Lester Hostess To Club

ORANGE, Jan. 1.—A delightful afternoon in the home of Mrs. Cal Lester, West Chapman avenue, was shared yesterday by members of the U. S. A. club. A decorated Yuletide tree and festoons of streamers lent seasonal charm to the rooms where luncheon was served on daintily appointed trays. Mrs. Stewart White assisted the hostess by pouring coffee. Games of varied nature were enjoyed during the afternoon, with Mrs. Alvin Clifford and Mrs. R. D. Stanley winning prizes. A white elephant exchange was the occasion for much merriment. Members sharing Mrs. Lester's hospitality were Mesdames Lotta Brandon, Earl Campbell, Henry Campbell, Alvin Clifford, Marion Flippin, Lucian Flippin, Walter Lovell, Owen Murray, W. W. Perkins, Paul Ristow, B. D. Stanley, V. J. Sutherland, Earl Woods and the Misses Florence Moreland and Bertha Youngs. Guests included Mrs. Stewart White, Mrs. Margaret Scott, Miss Fern Sumner, Orange; Miss A. Corbett and Miss S. Pauline Mountain View, and Miss L. Jerritt, of Fullerton. MISSION SCHOOL SCHEDULED FOR SUNDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, Jan. 1.—Sunday morning, Mrs. H. M. Miller, formerly of Sacramento and now of Los Angeles, will present a vocal solo in the Presbyterian church. Her selection will be "Oh, Divine Redeemer," by Gounod. The choir is to sing the anthem "God So Loved the World."

In the evening service the Christian Endeavor societies have made arrangements to conduct a school of missions to continue for the next six weeks. The general plan is that the high school and intermediate departments will meet together to study from the textbook, "The Rural Billions," under the leadership of the Rev. J. F. Davenport, a recently returned missionary from Venezuela, who is residing in Orange at the present time. The Rev. and Mrs. Davenport are staying in the home of Mrs. Davenport's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Worrall, 478 South Grand street. For the opening meeting of the class, the Rev. Mr. Davenport plans to have a replica of a typical mud-brick house of one of the families of the rural billions of the world. This replica was constructed according to proper proportions and represents the home of a typical rural family in Venezuela.

The young people are being led by a former pastor of the church, the Rev. M. L. Pearson, and his subject will be "The Gospel and the Plow" from the book written by Sam Hagenbaum, of India. The adults will be led by Mrs. Clara M. Jones and her subject will be "Korea, the Land of the Dawn." It is also planned that each of the evening services for the next six weeks will be in harmony with the general plan of the school of missions. This Sunday evening the Rev. J. F. Davenport will speak on Venezuela. It is expected that the Rev. Albert J. Siegel, a former college friend of the pastor, will speak January 10. The Rev. Mr. Siegel at present is pastor of the largest church in Siam, located at Bangkok. On January 17 the Rev. Alvin J. Shirley, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church, will speak concerning his experience as a missionary in northern Canada. It is also planned that the Rev. Harry J. Hill, another former college and seminary friend of the Rev. Robert McAuley, will speak the evening of January 24.

The committee hopes to observe January 21 as cosmopolitan night, when different nationalities will sing and speak.

At the meeting of the committee last night it was planned to have a young people's pageant on the closing night of the school, February 7.

Those in charge of arrangements for this school of missions are as follows: Dr. R. B. McAuley, pastor; W. H. Lowry, clerk of the session; Mrs. Clara Jones, representing the church at large; William Settle, the adult Christian Endeavor; Samuel McElfresh, president of the Young People's Christian Endeavor; Miss Edith Culter, advisor of the Young People's Endeavor; Edgar Lusk, president of the High School Christian Endeavor; Mrs. H. L. Haynes, advisor of the High School Christian Endeavor; Miss Henrietta Campbell, president of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor; Mrs. C. I. Thomas, advisor of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor, and Miss Esther Thomas.

Meeting Time Of Sunday Schools Changed on Jan. 3

ORANGE, Jan. 1.—Going to Sunday school the first Sunday in the new year will mean getting ready 15 minutes earlier than on past occasions for young people of four churches of the city. Beginning January 3, classes will convene at 9:30 instead of 9:45 o'clock. The Christian, Presbyterian, Methodist Episcopal and Baptist churches are observing the new schedule.

By changing the meeting time, a longer period can be devoted to the class lessons, the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, pastor of the Christian church, said today. The Rev. Mr. Minck is president of the Ministerial union, before which the matter of advancing the class time was considered about two months ago. The churches acted on the recommendation of the union.

Male Gold Fish Eaten by Mates

ORANGE, Jan. 1.—That the female of the species is more deadly than the male is evidenced in a striking way by the lack of male gold fish in the pool at the base of the fountain in the plaza. So fond of their mates are the female fish that they have eaten them all up and as a consequence, the population of the pool has been at a standstill for some time, according to Martin Estock, gardener at the plaza.

Yesterday the pool was cleaned and refilled and the waterlily bulbs were separated for resetting. It was found that but seven gold fish lived in the shade of the umbrella palms and under the water lily pads. The seven fish all are unusually large and seem in the best of condition.

281 FILE SUIT FOR DIVORCE IN ORANGE COUNTY

Twenty-two and six tenths per cent of all civil complaints filed in the Orange county superior court last year were divorce cases. This fact stood out today as a result of a survey made of the records in the office of County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Altogether, there were 1342 civil actions launched during the year just closed, and of these, 304 were divorce or annulment cases, separate maintenance actions, suits for alienation of affections or for custody of children.

There were 281 divorce cases filed, 19 suits for annulment of marriages, two separate maintenance suits, one action over alleged alienation of affections and one over custody of children.

There were approximately 236 interlocutory decrees of divorce granted, 231 final decrees and 11 annulments during the past year. Some of the interlocutory decrees granted were included among the list of new complaints filed during the year. Final decrees, however, are issued only after a year has elapsed following the granting of interlocutory decrees. Neither party may marry for a year after the granting of an interlocutory decree of divorce, but may marry after the final decree has been issued.

SAYS STATE TO LEAD RECOVERY
IN BUSINESS

Recovery in the national business situation will be led by this state.

That was the opinion expressed yesterday by Frank J. Was, manager of Santa Ana branch of the Security-First National bank.

"It is not possible to predict with any degree of certainty how soon the nation shall witness more prosperous times," he said, "although there is reason to believe that improvement will occur during 1932. However, it is certain that when recovery does come, California will lead the way. This area, affected less than any other area in the country, is in an advantageous position not merely to benefit from any improvement nationally, but to contribute largely to that improvement."

Was declared that because of the advanced purchasing power of the dollar, owing to a decrease in prices, the business year of 1931 cannot be appraised accurately by ordinary statistics on a dollar basis. "The volume of business has been fairly well sustained," he said, "although, as in the case of agriculture, products brought less return to the producer. Recent employment figures indicate that industrial activity has been carried on in this area during 1931 at a rate approximately 20 per cent below that of the preceding year. Certain lines of business, notably meat packing and grain milling, have maintained operations at a very favorable level. Citrus fruits returned California growers, most of whom live south of Fresno, approximately 100 million dollars during the past season. Because of the depressed citrus industry, the oil industry is better situated now than it has been for some time. The curtailment program having resulted in substantially reducing stocks of crude oil.

"Of particular gratification during this period of retarded business is the position of the banks in this area. They have demonstrated their ability to meet the legitimate credit needs of their respective communities, an important factor contributing to business stability. In my opinion," he said, "there is ample reason for viewing the coming years with confidence."

Engagement Told
At Bridge Party
Of Wilma Adams

VILLA PARK, Jan. 1.—Coming as a surprise to her friends, who had gathered for an evening of bridge, Miss Wilma Adams' engagement to Jack Hatto of Hermosa Beach, was revealed Wednesday evening. With a color scheme of red and green in keeping with the Christmas season, Miss Adams chose appropriate tally cards on which was written "The Old, Old Story," and disclosed summer as the season in which the wedding will take place.

At the conclusion of the bridge games, first prize was awarded to Miss DeLong, second prize to Miss Lucille Hayward, and low prize to Miss Marcella Turner. Small French pastries in the Christmas colors, sunshine cake, ice cream in red, white and green, coffee and different kinds of nuts in polka-dot cups were served to Miss Lois DeLong of Villa Park, Miss Georgia DeMonte of Fullerton, Mrs. Elmore Lord, Mrs. Lloyd Baker, Miss Floy Stephenson, Miss Lucille Hayward, Mrs. Frank Higgins, Miss Hazel Campbell and Miss Marcella Turner, all of Orange; Mrs. Tracy, Mrs. Ed Stanley, Miss Wilma Adams, and her mother, Mrs. Walter Adams.

PROHIBITION, depression, peace or war, new inventions, "big business," sectional disapproval of the national government. . . . These were the questions uppermost in the minds of the people 5, 15, 20, 30, 40, 100 years ago, just as many of them are still uppermost today.

Prohibition was one of the principal topics of the American public five years ago as more activity was inaugurated in connection with enforcement.

And 15 years ago, Jan. 1, 1917, President Wilson, who had just been re-elected, pondered his next step in the game of nations which was clerk, the most frequent type of civil cases was the accident or personal injury type arising from automobile collisions. Divorce cases came second.

Probate proceedings, relating to the settlement of estates, numbered 608. There were 194 criminal cases launched in the courts by the office of District Attorney Sam L. Collins.

Seventy-five mental cases have resulted in commitments to various institutions for observation or treatment. Eighteen alleged intemperate persons were committed to institutions.

Juvenile delinquency cases totaled 271.

finally to see America enter the World War in April of that year. Preparedness parades and patriotic meetings were the order of the day for a nation which was enjoying the war boom in business after recovering from the early war depression.

Just as the questions of television and the talkies intrigue us today, so was America wondering 20 years ago about the change to be wrought by the automobile and the airplane, both still industrial infants, on January 1, 1912.

The long depression of the 90's was over and Theodore Roosevelt, then a young and vigorous statesman of a school new in American politics, was president when January 1, 1902, dawned. Roosevelt had been in office only a short time, and big business trembled in its boots as he talked of "trusts" and such things.

One of the darkest days in United States history was January 1, 1862, when Lincoln was president and the Civil War had witnessed one reverse after another to Union armies. The picture of Stonewall Jackson at Bull Run, where Union troops were routed in the first major engagement of the conflict, had left an unpleasant memory at Washington, as the year of 1861 passed without a single major success. American business and prestige were at a low ebb in Europe and confidence at home was none too high.

Just 100 years ago, fiery Andrew Jackson of Tennessee was president and was threatening to call out the federal army if South Carolina said anything more about nullifying the high tariff. This was the real beginning of the split which ultimately led to the Civil War in 1861.

LOVE LAUGHS AT DEPRESSION;
MARRIAGE LICENSE BUSINESS
SHOWS INCREASE PAST YEAR

Love knows no obstacles and a little thing like an economic depression is swept aside like a mere "bogey" when youth responds to romance.

This is the story that may be read in the marriage license figures gleaned from the records in County Clerk J. M. Backs' office.

For there were more than 2004 September, 318, and October, 339. January recorded 281 licenses; February, 253; March, 271; May, 281; November, 261, and the first 30 days of December, 281.

NEW YORK LEADS

ALBANY, N. Y.—New York still leads in the total number of licensed and unlicensed places, having 3229 out of the total of 17,000. In the number of pilots California ranks first, having 3229 out of the total of 17,000 in the whole country. New York is second in this respect, having 1811.

ANNOUNCE PLAN TO ESTABLISH
NEW MISSION

Establishment of a mission of the American Catholic church in Santa Ana is planned for the near future. It was announced today by the Rev. P. W. Clarkson, of Laguna Beach, a pastor in the Episcopal church in Southern California for 25 years, who was recently appointed archdeacon of Southern California for the American Catholic church.

Archdeacon Clarkson announced today that he is seeking a suitable corner lot in northwest Santa Ana as a mission site. For the present his headquarters are in Laguna Beach, where he hopes to establish another mission.

A mission has been started in San Diego, where the primate, Archbishop Lloyd, of Chicago, and Archbishop Lines, of Los Angeles, recently confirmed a class of neophytes presented by the archdeacon.

According to the Laguna man, the American Catholic church claims apostolic succession from Antioch, ante-dating Rome, and owes an allegiance to the Pope. The church is liberal in thought and modern and scientific in all things not fundamental. Archdeacon Clarkson said. It remarries divorcees and welcomes all believers to its sacraments, he said.

Archdeacon Clarkson has worked in several countries and has many beautiful churches, parish houses and rectories as memorials to his labors in Canada, Scotland, New Zealand, Egypt, Turkey and California, a total of more than 30 missions.

New Year Hospitality Inclines Towards Family Parties

Since the dawn of a new year is always of importance, the celebration of New Year's day is one that has special meaning for everyone. Today, with the advent of 1932, there is an especially marked spirit of hopefulness and encouragement for the months to come. So the day is being celebrated in hundreds of Santa Ana homes, with the rejoicing that comes when members of the family circle are brought together, and the cheerfulness that new hopes and new prospects can bring.

Informal Entertaining
The snow-clad mountains of the Coast range offer an irresistible lure to the lovers of winter sports, and it would be difficult to choose between the charms of a quiet holiday dinner at home or a merry outing in the snows.

But one thing is certain, and that is that no matter what form the hospitality may take, it will be strictly informal. After the joyous welcome to the little New Year, when midnight whistles blew, bells rang and horns tooted madly, there could be no formality in the day's program.

Mountain Parties
Among the merry parties enjoying a mountain outing was that which left this city yesterday bound for Lake Arrowhead and a joyous observance of the holiday. In the party were Miss Margaret Gaebe, Miss Nan Mead, Miss Katherine Walbridge, Miss Janet Watson, Miss Evelyn Woodruff and Messrs. William Woodruff, Edward Hayes, Gordon X. Richmond and Ben Fletcher of this city and Orange; Dick Hoffman of Oakland and Mrs. Frank Colfax Richmond.

The Joseph P. Smith cabin at Forest Home is the scene of a merry holiday party, members of which include Miss Betty Wiswall, Miss Frances Bowman, Miss Nellie Grafton, Miss Eileen Adams, Messrs. James Privett, Don Harrison, Bert Wilkins Jr., Don Smith and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wilkins of Anaheim, chaperones.

The winter attractions of Forest Home had their appeal also to a group composed of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dane, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tournant of Santa Ana and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth K. King of Orange, who are spending the holiday week end in that pleasant spot.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Stanley of Tustin, with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Donald Smith of Laguna Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Kring of Hollywood, planned to spend the holiday week end in the Stanley cabin in the San Diego mountains. They are expected to return home Monday.

Tournament of Roses
The lure of Pasadena and its world-famous Tournament of Roses has been exerted over many local groups, and among those who are in the Crown City today for the event are Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Kellogg and Mr. and Mrs. George Butler.

Another party motoring to Pasadena for the tournament and game was made up of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Trueblood and Mr. and Mrs. John Burns of this city; T. E. Coppinger and his daughter, Miss Mary Coppinger, of Newport, R. I., and Mrs. Raymond Birne of Westminster.

Home Entertainings
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Witt, West Eighteenth street, have as dinner guests today Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Talcott and daughter and son, Gwendolyn and Jimmie of Anaheim.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Swain, 621 North Garmy street, are entertaining at a turkey dinner today. Guests include Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Talley and son, Bobbie; Miss Geraldine Griffith and Miss Dorothy Jesse, and the daughters of the Swain home, the Misses Lucille, Carmelle and Georgianna Swain.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter C. Edmunds, 1860 East Fruit street, are entertaining at dinner today. Guests are J. M. Talcott and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Marigold of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Holmes of Tustin have as dinner guests today Mrs. Minnie Holmes, Miss Mildred Holmes, Mrs. Caroline Mercer and Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Mercer of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Mercer had as recent guests Miss Helen Bows of Whittier and Mrs. Glenn Stockbridge of Bakersfield. Mrs. Stockbridge has been visiting with her mother, Mrs. Charles Winters, Valencia street, this city.

Mrs. W. H. Harrison of 1406 Bush street is entertaining at luncheon in her home today her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Morton D. Simpson of Los Angeles and Miss Opal Davis and Mrs. R. E. Coulter, both of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stewart and children, Lois, Albert and Oliver, of West Fifth street were dinner hosts today in their home. Guests

NEW HOUSE PAJAMAS ARE SMART IN DESIGN AND A PRACTICAL PART OF ONE'S WARDROBE

Smartly tailored lines are combined with graceful warmth in the robe, pictured on the left, of a two-tone reversible vogue. Patou's idea of correct indoor wear for the pajama-loving woman, is a deep blue crepe royal sleeveless suit, pictured on the right. This has intricately cut trousers and a tiny standing collar. Over a sleeveless negligee of pale rose crepe (shown in the center) Patou places an amusing little jacket of soft blue velvet.

Noted Designer Warns Against Fantasy in Indoor Costumes

By JEAN PATOU

Written for NEA Service
PARIS, Jan. 1.—One very seldom considers lounge attire when pondering generally on the wardrobe of a well-dressed woman.

Yet it seems to me that precious as the moments are that a modern woman can spend in her own home, the garment she wears then should be studied as carefully as any other.

As a matter of fact, I think lounge clothes are sufficiently important to have a style all their own, especially as nowadays a restless time does not necessarily mean the barring of all social activity.

There is a question as to whether indoor styles should follow the prevailing mode or be completely independent.

Generally speaking, negligees usually harmonize with the remainder of a woman's clothes, but there is no hard and fast rule governing this. By this, I mean that there is never any air of eccentricity in the lounge attire of a modern woman, but on the other hand, if the ardent sportswoman wishes, she can very well don an ultra-feminine negligee for her leisure hours.

A negligee is very often a decided insight into the character and personality of its wearer. It is something so extremely feminine and its chief qualities reside in its line and softness.

Even when a negligee is mainly composed of a satin sheath effect, it should have some touches of light and airy trimming to convey that necessary albeit restrained vaporous note.

One feature, though, is rigorously barred from even the most feminine of negligees, and that is transparency. Still another point to keep in mind is that too rich or sumptuous a fabric is sure to result in something that looks old-fashioned, almost obsolete. It is quite ridiculous, on reflection, that a woman should wear a delicate and over-rich garment for resting purposes.

Indoor pajamas, the other type of rest attire, are obviously less feminine but more practical. This latter quality, however, does not mean that a great deal of measure and study should attend their make-up. A mere detail will be sufficient to convey an ambiguous air to pajamas and this can usually be traced to the desire to achieve complicated effects which they do not need.

If in spite of all its practical qualities a pajama must remain feminine, then this note must be given by the suppleness of its cut and fabric, but never by some touch of fantasy that is invariably out of place.

The most satisfactory pajama ensemble is, I think, composed of a sleeveless blouse and trousers, with the blouse tucked in the trousers. The latter should be wide, without exaggeration. I suggest a sleeveless blouse because the suit can be successfully completed by a robe in light wool fabric, neither too full nor too fitted and absolutely plain, providing added comfort.

Pajamas should always be uncolored or at most combine two colors. Here again the woman with an unerring dress sense will know what shades are best suited to this type of garment.

Informal Little Party Is Compliment to House-Guest

One of the pleasant features of the holiday visit in this city of Mrs. Belle Munoz of Salinas was the informal evening of bridge given in her honor by her hostess and aunt, Mrs. Harry Prichard of 1105 Poinsettia street.

Mrs. Munoz arrived in Santa Ana on the Saturday after Christmas for a week's visit which will conclude tomorrow when she leaves for her home in Salinas. The enjoyable party complimenting her was an event of Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Prichard asked a few friends in for a session of bridge. In the group, in addition to hostess and honoree, were Mrs. Jess Stewart, Miss Gertrude Prichard, Miss Grace Prichard, and Messrs. Glenn East of Long Beach, Elbert Stewart and Bob Andrew of this city.

In the bridge contest, high score was made by Mr. Andrew and low by Mr. Stewart. Each was presented an attractive little prize reward.

One of the merriest features of the evening was when cards were abandoned and the guests turned their attention to popping corn, which was enjoyed with candy through the remainder of the evening.

Meeting of District Clubwomen Slated For Indio

Santa Ana clubwomen, like their sisters throughout Southland communities, are turning their interest to club affairs, now that the holidays are officially past, and the new year opens up new activities for women's clubs generally. The next affair of federation interest, will be the Southern District Executive Board meeting to be held in Indio on Friday, January 8.

Indio Woman's club members will be hostesses to the board, and to any clubwomen of the district who may wish to attend the sessions. For the convenience of those with long distances to drive in order to reach the Little Coachella valley city, the hour of 10:30 a. m. has been set for the opening of the session and business matters and program will terminate promptly at 3 p. m., according to Mrs. Albert Launer of Fullerton, district president, and Mrs. Frank Rospaw of Placentia, press chairman.

Luncheon will be served by the hostess club, and reservations should be made in advance through Mrs. James S. Carter, Box 554, Indio.

Mrs. Claude L. Houchins of Grimes, state chairman of the American Home department, will be the speaker at the forenoon session. In the after-luncheon interval, there will be a roll call of club presidents, followed by a review of Bernard Fay's "George Washington."

CONTRASTS ON KREG PROGRAM FOR TONIGHT

Three widely contrasting programs have been arranged for presentation over station KREG tonight. Musical offerings of a widely differing type will form part of the program, with the sequence broken by a quaint, humorous presentation of family life in the long ago.

At 6:45 p. m. another program featuring the Chocolate Chanters will be presented by electrical transcription. The Chocolate Chanters were presented recently for the first time over KREG and scored an instantaneous hit with listeners. The program presents 15 negroes in a choral program impressive with the simple beauty of the numbers.

Starting at 7 p. m. and continuing for the next 30 minutes Uncle Sidney's Fireside program will be broadcast. Listeners will hear a discussion of plans for the New Year, problems to be met and how Uncle Sidney and "Ma" will manage them. Music will be provided during this informal half hour and an enjoyable entertainment is promised everyone who tunes in on this feature.

Immediately following Uncle Sidney a pleasing contrast will be offered by Juanita Groves, Blues Melodist, in a special program of captivating melody and songs. This popular artist sings in the afternoon, three times each week, and is pleasing an ever-growing audience with her pleasing personality which is delightfully blended into her voice. She will be accompanied at the piano by Phyllis Davis.

AT WEST COAST

Joan Peers and Eddie Quillan in a scene from "The Tip Off," now showing at the Fox West Coast theater.

"THE TIP OFF" STARTS TODAY AT WEST COAST

Eddie Quillan and Robert Armstrong come back to the Fox West Coast theater today.

Their appearance marks the opening of "The Tip Off," another sensational story in which Quillan is given the lead and Armstrong plays a strong character part.

Quillan is seen as a radio repair man, who falls in love with a girl in one of the many homes he visits to repair the radio receiving set. It happens that the girl is placed in grave danger through the activities of a gang and Quillan, with the aid of his pal, Armstrong, a prize fighter, manages to rescue her, but not until after a series of adventures, destined to keep the audience in suspense throughout the showing of the picture.

UNUSUAL MUSICAL PROGRAM PLANNED

Regular listeners over KREG and Woman's Hour fans have a treat in store for them tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock when Genevieve Knox presents her daily program. Evelyn Edwards, of Orange, an accomplished pianist and a pupil of Adelaide Proctor, well known pianist, will furnish the music that accompanies the regular talk by Mrs. Knox.

In addition to the unusual musical program to be presented, Mrs. Knox, who conducts the program, has arranged a list of new recipes and timely household hints that will be of value to every woman.

The Still That You Carry
I hope I may be forgiven paraphrasing that tenuous little ditty: "Every little movement has a meaning all its own," when I sing that Every little tummy has a "still" that's all its own!

Supposing you were a magician who had the power to take a pleasantly plump person (one who enjoys bread and butter, cake and pies, and all the fat-making foods), and with a presto, change! reduce him to atoms and distill the alcohol in this type of eater is constantly producing from the food he consumes. You would find that this type was producing daily enough alcohol to give a bunny a good fat "bun!"

The body seems to need minute particles of organic alcohol either because of its energy necessities, or through the habit it has acquired from early childhood, due to our common dietary. It can get away with small amounts of this organic alcohol, and we say we feel fine, but next time you over-eat of sweets and starchy foods at dinner please take note of the heavy head and rotten way you feel when you awaken next morning, a sort of "the

Dale and Smith, screen comics, also have leading parts in the film. To state that any picture is not a comedy, in which Winnie Lightner appears would be an insult to her ability, but "Manhattan Parade"

Reconciliation With Estelle Is Impossible

"I'm getting a bit bored with all this reconciliation talk," "But all your friends are pulling for you and Estelle to make it."

"Well," Jack said, "there's one person who's not pulling that way."

"You're sure?"

"Sure," he declared. "We're divorced, aren't we? When a man and his wife get divorced, that's a fact, isn't it?"

"There's such a thing as getting married," he was reminded.

"Now about the report that Estelle might be engaged to a good-looking Chicago man?"

Refuses Comment on Estelle

This was in reference to the fact that Miss Taylor to International News Service in Los Angeles at there might be a new romance in her life.

"Nothing to say," he declared. "That's Estelle's business."

Jack was asked about the story that he was engaged to Miss Von Vincent, wealthy Salt Lake girl.

"They're all the buns those girls are," Jack replied. "I and had went deer hunting in Wyoming last October. That's all there is to that."

The reports had already been denied by Miss Vincent.

Dempsy switched to prohibition. He agreed with a statement of Willis Moody, national women's champion, gave yesterday in which she declared prohibition as prevailing was all wrong and the bootlegger "ought to be hanged in national beer."

Raps Prohibition

"It's causing more and more and graft today than anything else."

Dempsy said boxing was as popular as ever.

He suffered less in the present economic situation than any other sport," he declared. "People will pay to see good fights, there's a fascination to boxing that no other sport has, not even football."

Jack disclosed that Dempsy participated in 34 bouts during his barnstorming tour from August 1921 to December 1921.

He former champion met 102 opponents in these bouts. Jack's record was 281 wins, 15 losses, and fought before 281,154 persons.

They paid $477,560 to get in," Jack declared. "That proves it is still one of the greatest wing cards in boxing."

MIDWAY CITY

S. E. Davies is adding another room to his residence, the screen porch being converted into a bedroom.

Dr. and Mrs. Russell L. Johnson have named their young daughter, whose birth occurred last Sunday, Jean Beverly Johnson.

Fire threatened the residence of Ed L. Hensley about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, when the floor of the living room became ignited when coals from the fireplace fell through a crevice where the tiles had spread. Smoke issuing through the flooring was the first the family knew of the fire.

Through the efforts of the family and neighbors, the fire was extinguished with damage confined to the floor.

Frederick Vaughn had as guests from Costa Mesa, Willard Bailey, who was entertained from Sunday over Tuesday.

"Oh, my, we're doomed!" wee Duncy cried. "I never thought the rocket ride would lead us to a giant's hand. What are we going to do? I must admit I'm very scared. This is the worst that we have feared. No telling what will happen in this strange adventure's through."

"Oh, please hush up," snapped Scouty. "We may very shortly be set free. The great big giant's smiling. Maybe he's a kind old man. You always fear a lot of things that in the end fate never brings. If Mr. Giant lets us out we'll run off, if we can."

And then they heard a gruff voice say, "Oh, no you won't, lads. Not today. I am not going to let you go, but I want you to stay here. You see, I'm fond of little boys if you don't make a lot of noise. If you lads will behave yourselves there's not a thing to fear."

"All right, then, kindly let us out," the giant heard one Tiny shout. "We'd like to hop down on the ground and get some nice fresh air. We cannot swing the door outside, although we all have tried and tried. Won't you please open up the latch so we can come outside?"

Another added, "We'll be good. Just like all little fellows should. Gee, when you get a look at us, you'll have to laugh, no doubt. While we were sailing through the sky, a queer thing happened, way up high. We all began to shrink until we are almost faded out."

The rocket door then opened wide. "Hello there, friends," the giant cried. "Don't worry 'bout your being small. I'll make you big some day." The Tinies hoped out to the ground, all pleased that they were safe and sound. "Well, here we are," cried Scouty. "Will you join us in our play?"

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION

Today opens up a new year. 1931 has passed with all of its joys and its sorrows, its troubles and its fears.

The new year is on its way, consisting of 366 days, freighted, we hope, with joy and with a greater prosperity than the old year has given us, and we trust with experiences that will make our lives richer in themselves, and more valuable to others.

The difference between people can be seen quite clearly in the way they meet the vicissitudes of life. They are those upon whom the burden of fear is so heavy that they cannot face the actual reality itself, which, as a matter of fact, would be often found to be less than their imaginations would make it, and they run from it, and even destroy themselves in anticipation of it.

The poise, the dignity and the serenity with which one faces the future is an index of his real character. The man of faith is shown to be, in the time of crisis, the man of power. It takes little or no character to be happy and smile in the days of prosperity, when the golden fruits are falling in the lap. But when disappointments are many; when fortune seems to withhold her hand; when defeat almost like an avenging angel appears at our next step, then to go forward with cheerfulness evidences that which is sublime in man.

As a city, as a county, as a nation, we have everything we could desire or even imagine. The bountiful supplies, however, are not divided in a manner so as to furnish each home with all that could be desired at this time. This is because of the failure of man, his lack of wisdom in establishing rules and laws, his selfishness in programming to gain at the expense of others, and his reluctance in pursuing a course even to the injury of others. Thus came injustice and want.

But He who rules the universe, and whom we like to think of as "Our Father," has done His part, and in this new year, it would be a fine resolution for us all to determine to address ourselves to the problem of correcting these limitations on conditions which men have made, so as to fulfill the great purpose of supplying what must have been in the heart of a Loving God. In doing this, we shall solve the real problems that face society. We shall bring happiness untold into the hearts of men, and we will save ourselves and civilization.

FOREIGN INVESTMENTS

J. M. Daiger, formerly a newspaper correspondent has assembled some figures on the amount of money the people of the United States have invested abroad to which no one can be indifferent. He says that we are involved in European international financial affairs now to the extent of twenty-five billion dollars.

Less than half of this sum is the amount that the treasury of foreign nations owes the United States as war debts. Seven or eight billion represents the bonds and shares of American companies which control and operate or partially own, foreign manufacturing plants and public utilities, oil lands and refineries, gasoline trucks and filling stations, mining and smelting properties, rubber and sugar plantations. Seven or eight billion more of American dollars are invested in foreign government, provincial, municipal and corporate securities sold in the American market. Another billion and a half, Mr. Daiger estimates, represents the obligations of foreign banks for short-term loans advanced by American banks.

A mere statement of these figures cannot but impress anyone who reads them that the people of the United States are involved in European financial affairs very deeply and that the war debts are a small proportion of the total involvement.

Mr. Daiger's figures have been supported by the facts that have been brought out by the Senate committee which has been taking statements from various financial leaders.

The American dollars invested in Europe are American dollars, whether they were loaned by the government to foreign governments or loaned by the people themselves privately through investments placed through their banks. The crisis is such that it is a wise policy to write off the smaller portion of this European indebtedness to us in order to secure the bulk of it, or with the hope of securing the bulk of it.

It is a situation which calls for a degree of international thinking to which the people have had to become accustomed only since the war. It is a fact which is hard to face. It is so much easier to say a plague on both your houses. But we are involved to the extent of some twenty-five billion, not just the eleven billion of the government war loans, and we can't get out. For better or worse we are in and the only sensible viewpoint is to look after our billions which means we must study European problems so that we may judge what is possible and what is impossible. If by indifference the United States throws its balance in favor of the impossible we will be in a worse and more hopeless plight than we are now. We must look at the thing from a dollars and cents angle for that is the way we were looking at it when the investments were made in European municipal bonds, in foreign manufacturing plants, refineries, et cetera.

ITALIAN PROFESSORS LOSE THEIR JOBS

A short time ago we called attention in these columns to the oath which the Fascist government of Italy required of those desiring to teach in Italian universities. It was an oath which no independent-minded seeker of truth can take or ought to take. In the main it would destroy his value as a teacher if he took it. Now we learn that of the 1200 or more professors who occupy chairs in the Italian universities, only 11 refused to sign the oath, and are now without jobs. Among the eleven are some of the leading intellectual leaders of Italy.

It may be thought that such a feeble protest, indicated by the small number who refused to take the oath, settles the question. But it does not. Eleven daring spirits, ready to suffer the consequences, may have a more far-reaching influence for the future than the 1200 who bowed the knee to the Baal of Fascism. If, according to the ancient Biblical story, ten righteous men might have saved Sodom from its doom, who can doubt that eleven independent thinkers may yet deliver Italy from the clamping edicts of a dictator who would obstruct the way of intellectual and social progress? These eleven professors may well make Mussolini uneasy. Stifling ideas is a much harder job than subduing unthinking mobs. And we believe that Mussolini will find that out.

Federal Aid on Nation's Highways

The San Bernardino Sun

The magnitude of Federal highway operations is one of the important factors in the aid for unemployment. More than 11,000 miles of Federal-aid roads were completed during the last fiscal year and in November 1930 miles were placed in service. Federal-aid road projects under construction at the beginning of December entailed expenditures aggregating $267,528,575.

The number of men employed reached 154,453 in June, an advance of 100,000 in three months. The speed with which new projects were started under way belies the often expressed criticism of governmental red tape. The bureau of good roads estimates that for every person directly employed on the road work proper two others are employed in the manufacture and transportation of road materials and equipment.

On June 30 a total of 88,713 miles of road had been completed with Federal aid operation since the system of the government participation in the cost of highways was inaugurated.

With the policy of government aid the transcontinental highways could not have been built. Such states for instance as Arizona and Nevada could not have financed the construction of the necessary links in the transcontinental routes. Federal aid for highways has been long opposed by big eastern states. They figure they pay the bulk of the Federal revenue and the highways are built in regions remote from them. They refuse to recognize, however, that the income of the big corporations which have their seat of corporate control in New York or New Jersey or Pennsylvania comes from all over the United States. These corporations pay their income taxes in those states but the money that they pay comes from all over the country.

Highways have contributed much to the business activity of the country. Without the Federal aid roads there would never have been as many automobiles or as great a use for gasoline. Certainly the benefit of those two industries is widespread over the nation.

Kindness to Animals

New York Times

The German owner of two police dogs and a Persian cat is touring the country to demonstrate to school children what kind treatment and patient training will do for animals. He has been making the rounds of the schools in Newark. A. G. Balcom, assistant superintendent, has written letters to principals calling attention to the work that Marcus Monk is doing, and especially to the almost human understanding of his animals.

Storm King and Peter are the dogs, and the cat is Daniel. Lessons in training are given. A dog when asked what happens to a child who plays in the street limps across the stage as if hurt. The dog knows all the traffic signals, and stops, goes, and turns to the right or left at signs from his master. He also dances, and sitting up at a piano makes a feint of playing the instrument.

More important than the tricks is a course of training to encourage the children to teach and be patient with their pets. They are shown that a leash fastened to a collar when pulled this way or that indicates a command. It is made plain that a blow is never necessary in bringing up an intelligent dog, and that kindness always pays.

The Pine Beetle

The Oakland Tribune

The pine beetle, says the State Forester, is doubly destructive. It bores into the trees and kills them and does this so persistently and over an area so wide that it has become one of the largest and most serious problems facing the forest men. In addition, the beetle encourages fires. Dead twigs and limbs from trees which have been attacked fall to the forest floor and supply tinder for the fires.

A program against the beetle is being carried on but there is agreement among all the experts that not enough money has been appropriated and, until more interest and funds are supplied, the major number of victories will go to the pest. There is a plan to enlist the aid of the men who are living in state camps in the foothills. If they can fight the pine beetle effectively it is to be hoped some appropriation can be made by Federal or State authorities to reward them for the work.

THE WEALTH APPEAL

Though you and I may fear to doze,
Lest, in the gathering gloam,
A stern-faced sheriff will foreclose
The mortgage on the home,
Although distressing times have tried
The souls of plutocrats,
The "speake" heroes still reside
In forty-eight-room flats.
Or so, the members of the craft,
Are very often photographed.

Although we long have given up
A hoped for trip to Greece,
And never more can hope to sup
Beside the shores of Nice,
The many favorites of the screen
Have bid farewell to care
And in the news reviews are seen
In languid poses there.
Fatigued with pleasure, and blasé,
They sadly pass the time away.

These folk are often cast in roles
Of poverty and strife,
And feel the wolf at heel, poor souls,
But not in private life.
Their managers appear to think
That fame they'll never hold Unless they live amidst the clink
Of endless streams of gold.
Though maybe some of these great folk,
Like you and me, are almost broke.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

THE TIME KILLER

Rich or poor, you have as many hours in every day as any other living person.
On the use of these hours depends your success or failure, your happiness or despair. Give serious thought to this on this, the first day of a new year.

I am a firm believer in amusement and in relaxation, but too often people seek amusements not to relax, but to dispose of time which otherwise would hang heavily on their hands.
I have been in camp with men who, when rainy weather kept them indoors, were absolutely without resources if they could not persuade some of the others to play cards with them.

Reading to them appeared to be extremely distasteful, although there were plenty of books, and good ones in the camp.
They could not stand the exchange of ideas and views called conversation.

Talking, unless they could do it all themselves, bored them, and if they did it all themselves the rest of the crowd was bored. As to sitting down and thinking things out—that was impossible.

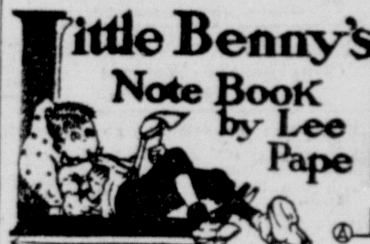

Apparently they had nothing to think with.

It seems strange that those whose term of life is limited must go to such lengths to waste it, for time killing is simply a waste of life, life being nothing more than the allotment of time that is yours while you dwell on this earth.

Even the dullest person ought to be able to take some interest in the life around him, as well as in the past.

Yet there are many people in every community who, if they cannot constantly be entertained by some outside agency, are completely at a loss.

If you find it hard to dispose of your time unless some one is ready to keep you company, or there is some form of entertainment to distract you from yourself, you may depend upon it that there is something the matter with you.

At a half a second before 12 last nite1931 wasent all a ways loose,
But a half a second later

My caller had lost its use.

People are making resolutions
To be careful, neat and kind,
So make yours loud and firmly
And get it off your mind.

One hundred years ago, in 1832,

There was a whole lot less to lissen to and a whole lot less to do.

No movie theaters to dash in,
No airplanes to crash in,
Nobody'd ever herd of them,
Wich keep people from feeling old fashion.

O another year is over
And about to disappear,
But just to make things even,
Another year is here.

And thats a way its always been

Since year number Minus One,

And thats a way it'll properly be

Till the number left is None,

Wich proves that nothing's finished

Till its all completely done.

Local dairies raised the price of milk in Santa Ana from seven cents a pint to eight cents and 12 cents a quart to 14 cents. Coffee cream was raised from 25 cents a pint to 30 cents, and buttermilk from 20 cents a gallon to 25c.

Forest Ranger Stephenson of El Toro had two crews of men fighting the fire which swept from the Santa Rosa mountains across the headwaters of San Mateo creek. He stated that the fire had covered a bigger area than any that had occurred in the Trabuco division of the Cleveland National forest in many years, but that it was confined to a territory where its harm was minimized.

Julian D. Mathews, Frank Nieman, Jules Jacques and R. A. Branigan, Santa Ana boys touring the vaudeville circuits as "The Four American Patrollers," quit the stage in Denver, Colo., to enlist for army service as members of the band of the First U. S. cavalry at Fort Russell, Wyo.

Figures from the county clerk's office, showed 1917 to have been a banner year in marriage licenses, with a total of 1526 licenses issued in the 12 months as against 1492 issued in 1916.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

PHYSICS AND MORALS

Last week I discussed the way in which the technical thought of scientists and philosophers filters down to the crowd and affects the moral outlook and daily conduct of multiplied thousands of men and women who know nothing technically of what the scientists and philosophers have been thinking, but who do feel the change in the climate of opinion that has been brought about by the profound researches of the modern mind.

Today I want to indicate the way in which even modern research in the field of physics has helped to create the particular atmosphere that is influencing what men think and do in the field of conduct.

At the end of the nineteenth century, there were six principles which, as Robert A. Millikan puts it, acted as police officers to keep the physical world in a state of law and order: (1) the principle of the conservation of the chemical elements; (2) the principle of the conservation of mass; (3) the principle of the conservation of energy; (4) the principle of the conservation of momentum; (5) Maxwell's equations in electrodynamics; and (6) the second law of thermodynamics.

In the last fifteen to thirty years, every one of these six principles has been either proved obsolete or been drastically revised. Modern physics has shown that the physical world does not behave in terms of such hard and fast rules. The reign of rigid laws is over in the field of physics.

The old physics was macroscopically. That is to say, it saw things in the large, giving us a picture of the physical world drawn with bold lines that the layman thought of as laws universally true and unchangeable. The new physics is microscopic. That is to say, it sees the little happenings as well as the large habits of the physical world and it has found whimsicality in a physical world once supposed to be governed by unchanging laws.

There has filtered down to the crowd a certain sense of lawlessness from the new physics as from the loosening of old formulas that has taken place in all other fields of research.

For instance, the crowd has heard the sound of the word, relativity, if it has not caught its technical meaning, and has begun to apply the notion of the relative rather than the absolute to its problems of morals as the physicist applies the notion of the relative rather than the absolute to his problems of matter and motion. The new physics thus affects folk who know nothing of the new physics.

Our ChildrenBy Angelo PatriCOSTLY FEARS

I know no way of destroying fears and no lifting a tremendous weight off children's souls. I believe that they are born with certain fears, the behaviorists to the contrary. I believe that some fears are beneficial. It is wise to teach a child to fear evil and cherish good. Self preservation is demanded of us in everyday living and certain protecting fears are essential to that end.

These seemingly necessary fears are bad enough. They are about all we can stagger under so it is most unkind as well as unwise, to cultivate fears or to allow a child to cultivate them, if we can avoid doing so.

Some children are so afraid of being hurt, that they make it nearly impossible to help them when they stand in need of help. Usually we find such children have been badly damaged and have had experiences that have made them fearful. Somebody has held them tightly and performed some necessary operation like cleansing his nose and throat with a swab, trimming a nail that was heading the wrong way; some slight necessary attention has been rendered with more good will than good management. Now when a nurse or a doctor approaches him he stiffens up and begins to scream. Past experiences have registered so great a fear in these children that it is well nigh impossible to give them first aid treatment.

The dentist suffers at the hands and feet of such children. Perhaps the little ones have heard the tales, the groans, the anguished recitals of those who have had their teeth fixed. Then he is called upon to sit in the dentist's chair and undergo what he believes to be a harrowing experience.

The way out is clear. Before you threaten a child with anything, place or thing, think what effect it is going to have on him when he meets that person, place or thing. Avoid telling of your own sufferings in his presence. The sooner you forget them the better for you and everybody else. Handle him gently when you have to help him and maintain an attitude of professional calm in the face of his tears. Your courage, your spirit, you as he sees you, tells you, knows you, set the pattern for his conduct, his courage or his fear.

PLANES BOMB HOSPITAL

On January 1, 1918, Teuton airplanes dropped bombs on two hospitals in Castelnuovo, Veneto, Italy, and killed 18 patients.

British forces repulsed a raid northeast of Loos on the western front.

Austro-Germans were driven from the western bank of the Piave on the Italian front.

At this time the military situation in Italy was precarious. Nearly all of the important passes into the Venetian plains were held by the Austro-Germans who had also established a foothold on the southern bank of the lower Piave at Zenson.

At the beginning of 1918 two points of advantage developed for the Italians: (1) Co-operation of the French and British armies; (2) an unusually large fall of snow in the closing days of December.
